

Introduction to Special Edition of the Innovation Journal: Efficient Management in the Non-Profit Organizations

Ian Greene
Master, McLaughlin College
York University, Toronto

The sixth International Symposium on Public Sector Management entitled: “Efficient Management in the Non-Profit Organizations,” was hosted by McLaughlin College, York University, on September 13 and 14, 2006. McLaughlin College is one of nine colleges at York University, and its theme is public policy. The symposia have been held every year or two over the past decade, organized by the Centre for Public and Non-Profit Management, Mannheim University, and the Schulich School of Business, York University. Each year, the proceedings of the conference are published for the benefit of conference participants and other readers who might benefit from the insights of the conference. This year, we are pleased to have our proceedings published as a special edition in the The Public Sector Innovation Journal.

The two key organizers of the International Symposium on Public Sector Management since its inception have been Prof. H. Ian Macdonald, President Emeritus of York University, and Prof. Peter Eichhorn, Rector Emeritus of the University of Mannheim. Professors Macdonald and Eichhorn organized the proceedings for this conference, and invited participants to present papers. The conference could not have occurred without the sponsorship of the Schulich School of Business, the School of Public Policy and Administration, Atkinson Faculty of Liberal and Professional Studies, and McLaughlin College, all at York University. As well, we are grateful for the support of the German Consulate General in Toronto.

The paper presentations led to lively discussions which informed the revision of the papers in this special edition prior to their publication. We are grateful to the anonymous peer reviewers for their very useful suggestions. Most of all, we are indebted to the Innovation Journal for producing this special edition. We hope that our readers will find the papers in this special edition both useful and enjoyable.

About the Author

Ian Greene has taught public policy and administration at York University since 1985. He earned a Ph.D. from the University of Toronto. He was assistant to the Alberta Minister of Consumer Affairs in the early 1970s, and Assistant to the Regional Director of Social Services in Lethbridge, Alberta 1982-85. Greene is the Master of York University’s McLaughlin College; Director of the Masters program in Public Policy, Administration and Law; past Chair of the University Senate; and Coordinator of the Graduate Diplomas in Justice System Administration and Democratic Administration. He was an associate dean in the Faculty of Arts from 1997 to 2000. He is associate director of the MPA Program in the Schulich School of Business, and co-director of the professional development LLM program in administrative law in Osgoode Hall Law School. Greene is author of The Courts (2006), a volume of the Canadian Democratic Audit series. He was the principal author of Final Appeal (1998), and co-authored Honest Politics (1997) and Judges and Judging (1990). His first book, The Charter of Rights, was published in 1989. As well, he was a member of the research team which published A Question of Ethics in 1998. He has published thirty academic articles or book chapters. He has been a frequent commentator in the media on ethics in politics, and on judicial behaviour. Web site: <http://www.yorku.ca/igreene>.